OPM Final rulemaking: Reduction in Force Service Credit; Retention Records

The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is issuing final regulations, effective May 7, 1999, that cover service credit for reduction in force purposes. These final regulations also cover access to reduction in force records by employees and their representatives.

The regulations cover the crediting of civilian and uniformed service for purposes of reduction in force competition under part 351 of this title. In addition, the regulations also cover who has access to reduction in force retention records, when that access is available, and what records are available for review.
